Patient information for telephone follow-up following treatment for ovarian cancer

Introduction

There is very good evidence to show that having regular follow-up appointments does not help prevent cancer returning or identify any new problems. Some patients find a follow-up appointment useful and reassuring, however some patients have told us these appointments cause a lot of worry and anxiety as well as not being helpful, unless they have something specific they wish to discuss. There is strong evidence that symptoms and concerns are addressed more quickly if patients report them as and when they occur, rather than waiting for their routine follow up appointment. Taking this into consideration patients are now being transferred from routine follow up and will be commencing telephone follow-up.

We have included information about how to get support and advice about your health. If you have any concerns or questions that are not covered in this booklet, please speak to your Gynae-Oncology Clinical Nurse Specialist.

What are the benefits of telephone follow up?

- Fewer visits to the hospital
- No transport costs.
- No problems with hospital parking.
- No time off work.
- Reduces anxiety and worry.
- Speaking to the same person.

What can I expect from my telephone follow up clinic appointment?

- The date and time of the appointment will be sent in the post.
• Your Clinical Nurse Specialist will contact you on that day and time at your given telephone contact number. You may wish to ensure you are in a quiet private location at this time.
• Your telephone assessment will include:
  - Discussion of your general health
  - Discussion of any problems or concerns you may have.
• If there is any cause for concern, the nurse will arrange an appointment for you to see your Consultant
• A letter, summarising the call, will be sent to yourself (if you have requested this) and your GP.

What support can my Clinical Nurse Specialist provide?
You can contact your Clinical Nurse Specialist for specialist advice, support and information, at any point for five years following your completion of treatment.

What symptoms should I seek advice about?
You will need to contact your Clinical Nurse Specialist if you experience these symptoms, they will discuss your concerns and if required arrange a clinic appointment for you.

• Bloated stomach
• Vaginal discharge
• Pelvic pain
• Pain and or difficulty passing water.
• Unexplained weight changes (loss or gains)
• Altered bowel habit (diarrhoea or constipation)
• Fatigue
• Nausea
• Loss of appetite
• Shortness of breath

Who can I talk to about how I am feeling?
Some people will be relieved when they are told that they no longer need to attend regular follow-up appointments, as they can start getting their lives back to normal. Others may be worried about the future and losing contact with hospital staff.

If you are finding it difficult to move on after your cancer treatment, you may want to talk to someone. This could be your Clinical Nurse Specialist or GP: if needed one-to-one support or counselling can be arranged.
